Nazis Tighten Grip On Bulgaria

Budapest, Mar. 7—Nazi authorities tightened their grip on German-occupied Bulgaria today and cleared the decks for military action in the Balkans.

The German-controlled Bulgarian army ordered civil mobilization of all doctors, nurses and chemists and declared they must be ready to join the army at a "moment's notice."

German commanders took charge of railway stations in Sofia and other key Bulgarian centers. Nazi soldiers assisted Bulgarian traffic policemen in the Sofia streets.

Meanwhile from Belgrade came a German report of a plot to sabotage the Dalmatian coast. This story said that conspirators who possessed $20,000 worth of explosives had planned to sink German and Italian ships tied up in Yugoslavian ports.

At the same time, the semi-official Hungarian newspaper Pester Lloyd said it understood the Greek government "positively will refuse a forthcoming German offer" to mediate a Greco-Italian peace settlement.

The paper revived previous unconfirmed reports that in view of this attitude King George of Greece and his ministers may be ousted from control.

It said it expected Greece would not be able to resist German pressure, and that an opposition government of pro-German statesmen would be formed at Athens, presumably headed by Crown Prince Paul, brother of King George.

Keep Them Off The Streets

(By "The Stroller")
Elmer Vanzant, of Cornwells Heights, believes that sports will keep the "kids" off the street and out of mischief.

Every night at the Mutual Aid Hall, when basketball is played, a group of youngsters crowd about the door, begging for dimes or requesting the doorman to "let them in" to see the games.

But last night, Vanzant solved this problem. Coming to the game early, Mr. Vanzant left word with the doorman that every "kid" that comes there was to be admitted to the game at his expense.

A total of 96 boys got into the game on Mr. Vanzant's treat. "It's the only way to stop Bristol from having 'Dead-End Kids' was Mr. Vanzant's only remark.

Lower Bucks County Republican Club met at Maple Grove, on Wednesday evening, with a number of new members joining. Short talks on operation of the Republican party were given.

Members of Kiwanis Club of Doylestown, listened this week to a talk by Oscar Kind, Jr., Philadelphia, as he told of the discovery of diamonds in South Africa, when a child kicked loose a pebble 71 years ago.

The guest speaker, presented by district attorney Edward G. Biester, is a gemologist of note and is also connected with the Franklin Institute. His talk and the pictures he showed later on diamond mining in South Africa comprised what many members described as the most interesting talk the club has had in years. Long after the closing time, members surrounded Mr. Kind and bombarded him with questions concerning precious gems.

"There is something about a diamond that is just not normal, and that's what makes them interesting," Mr. Kind declared.

The speaker declared that "confidence is the keynote of the jewelry business," and it is for that reason that gemologists throughout the country are presenting talks to clubs, schools and other groups to enlighten them about the history and production of gems.

"Diamonds are one of the antiques of nature and that also makes them interesting," Kind declared. "This being a section of the country where antiques are admired and sold, diamonds should be of equal interest to you."

The speaker declared that man has never been able to duplicate diamonds and that there is absolutely no such thing as a synthetic diamond.

Mr. Kind said that in his opinion Brazil is steadily becoming the diamond center because of the present chaos in Africa.

Diamonds, the speaker explained, were created in the earth some 60,000,000 years ago.

Encouraging The Strike

Washington, March 6.

THE credibility of the President's most recent press-conference statement is, to say the least, greatly diminished by the fact that the very day on which he dismissed the question of strikes in defense plants as trivial and insignificant the War Department should give official voice to its own concern over the strike situation, and that the following day the press should record new strikes in Cleveland, Columbus, Atlanta, Pittsburgh and other places.

While Mr. Roosevelt was telling the reporters that the strikes had affected only about one quarter of one per cent of the defense work his own personally selected Under Secretary of War, Mr. Patterson, was telling the House Judiciary Committee that "each day the Allis-Chalmers plant is shut [and

Plexiglas Gavel Given To Bristol Rotary Club

Two well-known Bristolians, Doron Green and Roy Fry, furnished the entertainment for the regular weekly meeting of the Rotary Club at the Elks' Home yesterday afternoon when they presented a program of magic. Sleight-of-hand tricks with cards, and many other mystifying tricks were performed and thoroughly enjoyed by the Rotarians. Dr. John Hargrave was in charge of the meeting.

Directly after the luncheon a very beautiful plexiglas gavel was presented to the club by E. Leslie Helwig and Vincent C. Henrich. The gavel, made of plexiglas, which is manufactured by the Rohm & Haas Company, had imbedded in it the Rotary insignia which belonged to the late Carl Wentzel, who had held the office of president of the Bristol Rotary Club. This was given by Mrs. Carl Wentzel. The lovely gift was received for the Bristol Rotary Club by Dr. Hargrave.

Among the guests present yesterday was Horace P. Schmidt, president of the Bristol Exchange Club.

Announcement was made that the meeting next week will be a ladies' night, with the Rotary Annex in attendance.

OUTCOME OF EUROPEAN CONFLICT AND REPERCUSSIONS TO BE FELT IN U. S. A., ARE CONSIDERED BY E. C. RAMSEY

Tells of How Some European Nations Have Been Preparing for Holocaust for Years — Sees Neither England nor Germany As A Winner, Although "Scales Are Balanced in Favor of England" — Speaks to High School Students in Afternoon; Exchange Club Members in The Evening.

Vivid word-pictures of Europe in the throes of war; the outcome of the conflict; the sufferings of the people; and the repercussions which are to be felt in this country following the termination of the holocaust, were given here yesterday by a world-traveller and observer of political, economic, spiritual and moral conditions.

The speaker was E. C. Ramsey, who over a period of years has made his home among the peoples of nations in Europe, Asia and Africa. Due to his training as a newspaperman, he has observed minutely the conditions of the country and its people, and is thoroughly capable of presenting the news behind the news.

Last evening Mr. Ramsey addressed a meeting of the Bristol Exchange Club, which was held in the Elks' Home; and yesterday afternoon he was the speaker at the assembly period of students of Bristol high school. At the conclusion of both of his talks, Mr. Ramsey was plying with questions, which he was perfectly capable of answering, and in this manner gave much added information to his audiences.

Mr. Ramsey speaks with ease and grace, and talks fluently; and as a result his auditors experienced no difficulty whatever in grasping his subject. At the Exchange Club meeting, the speaker opened his subject by quoting the title of an editorial, "Nothing That Happens in Europe Concerns Us," which he said appeared recently in a metropolitan newspaper. "This is untrue," said the speaker, who went on to prove his point by reviewing the efforts made by the United States to regain trade in South America, the preparations being made for a two-ocean navy, the world's largest air force, and an army second to none.

"Some nations in Europe have been preparing for this conflict for years," said the speaker, who described some of the conditions as he found them in Germany in 1924, relating that at that time tanks and gas were being buried underground, men were being trained in a military fashion with sticks, and shooting clubs were organized to improve the marksmanship of the populace. England's emergence from this conflict, in the opinion of Mr. Ramsey, is dependent upon two things, the spirit of the English people, and the aid given by the United States. He commented upon the excellent spirit of the English people, and said that he could not see how a free people can be overcome by force. "The land may be conquered, but not the spirit of the people," were the words of Mr. Ramsey. "Their morale is good, their spirit wonderful." And all this despite the fact that 2,000,000 people go 60 feet underground nightly to bomb shelters. "Every bomb dropped in England enhances the morale, while every bomb dropped in Germany has a tendency in the opposite direction, as the German people reason that if Berlin can be bombed, other German territory can be bombed, and this despite the teaching of their leaders that Germany is invincible. Because of the control of the press in Germany, people get only fragmentary news, concerning the attacks; and England is always pictured as bombing hospitals and civilians.

"I know Berlin has been bombed, as I was there," Mr. Ramsey said, "but many industrial centers in Germany have been bombed."

Aid from the United States is imperative, the traveler stressed. "Aid from the United States is vitally important. It is not too late, but it is late enough. Gentlemen, you are going to be called upon to make sacrifices."

In his opinion, Germany must fight Russia, and the speaker said: "Stalin and Hitler are not the 'sweethearts' they appear to be. Russia is fortifying strongly. She is protecting portions of her border by strands of barbed wire, and the erection of concrete and iron impediments to tanks and mechanized pieces. Americans must not become too soft, too indifferent and too complacent."

In regard to the laboring man in this country, Mr. Ramsey had this to say: "If this country has the right to take my brother, and my son, for the defense of this country, without them having anything to say about it, and only paying them $30 per month, it is my opinion that the government has the right to tell the laboring man what he is to do. Why should the 'sit-down' strike be permitted?"

The 69 Bund camps in this country, strategically located near powder-making plants, were scored by the guest speaker.

In addressing students at Bristol high school, yesterday afternoon, where he was introduced by superintendent of the Bristol schools, Warren P. Snyder, Mr. Ramsey predicted:

"England will not win the war. Germany will not win the war. There will not be a winner. But the scales are balanced in favor of England. My sympathies are with the English people. I am not pro-British; neither am I pro-Nazi or pro-Italian. But I am interested in destroying those conditions which make men like Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin possible. My sympathies are

JAPAN'S PREDICAMENT

Should trouble develop with Japan, American strategists are counting on Japan's inability to put up a long scrap owing to her insufficiency of essential raw materials.

Japan can almost supply herself with food but lacks oil, steel, copper, fibers, timber and many other necessities. Japan's shipping is heavily engaged in supplying the forces in China and if Britain and America called off their ships, Japan would not even have the ocean-going bottoms for transport, let alone to get the needed materials wherever they might be available.

American oil, cotton, metals, timber and machinery are what keep Japanese industry—and aggression—going. Cut off these commodities and Japan would be forced to seek new supplies, which would not be easy, or to exist on reserves, which would be impossible for more than a few months.

Should Japan be able to attack and reduce the British fortifications at Singapore while Germany and Italy knocked Britain out of Suez, Japan's position might be more supportable. As it is, Japan faces the task of carrying out threats against Britain and the United States, the two nations which can strangle her on the basis of the present international set-up.

THAT SURPLUS COTTON

The United States has one big white elephant on its hands—a cotton surplus of 9,000,000 bales. The title to it is in the United States government. What can the government do with it? Suggestions on that point are cropping up almost daily. A prominent cotton exporter in New York, Samuel C. Lamport, has made one which is intriguing at least.

Lamport would have the government set up a central control agency and assign to it 5,000,000 bales. This control agency would wait until the cotton mill defense work slackened and then begin swapping its cotton to the mills for various fabrics. This would be sort of a barter transaction in which no money would be involved. The government would get rid of 5,000,000 bales and accumulate a store of fabrics.

Lamport would allocate 2,000,000 bales to the Red Cross and other relief agencies for use in stricken countries. He would set aside another 1,000,000 bales to build up a reserve of Army and Navy supplies. The other 2,000,000 bales of surplus cotton Lamport would use to provide a stockpile of cotton fabrics which would be sold after the war to expand American export trade and to hold it against European and Asiatic cotton goods competition especially in the Latin-American countries.

The Englishman loves his pipe all right. The ban on American tobacco is about to be lifted in England because the Greeks and the Turks could not fill the bill and bowl.

Postmaster General reports 15 tons of propaganda have been ruled unavailable in the last two months. That saves quite a strain on the nation's wastebaskets.

British are testing their gas masks by exploding stink bombs. And on this side Americans will soon be enjoying the odor of lilacs and violets.

Advantage of Britain's far-flung empire is that a great deal of it is out of Hitler's reach.

Outcome of European Conflict Considered

with the English people, for they are fighting to preserve a way of life in which you and I believe."

Urging the young people, together with the rest of the peoples of the United States "not to sleep too long," the speaker admonished that "We are too indifferent. If we are not careful we will be in the predicament of many of the nations of Europe. You will find something has happened while you slept that extra hour. I'm not worrying about Hitler and the Nazis swimming the Atlantic—they're already here."

The responsibility that rests upon them as young people was considered by Mr. Ramsey when he said: "If there is a generation that will be called on to face life courageously in this country, it is your generation, young people." Then after telling of a meeting in the Fall of 1940 in this country where he heard the speaker before 3,000 people "Heil Hitler," and prate of his greatness, and of another public session in which the one giving the address upheld the Union of Soviet Russia and all it stands for, Mr. Ramsey said: "I didn't laugh at that. And I'm not laughing now. The people of Scandinavia thought they could laugh Hitler and his Nazi troops out of existence, but this proved not to be the case. We must not resort to laughter, but must be on the alert at all times from the foes that are right in our midst. Let us not sleep too long. Let us make Democracy in these United States function by making Democracy work."

Interesting side-glances were given into the lives of people of the countries now under the Nazi heel. "I have a friend in Holland, who as he looked lovingly at his five-year-old daughter, and considered her chances for being there when I again return to Holland, had grave fears for his wife. He felt she could not withstand the storm to come. But then beating his own chest, my Dutch friend said: 'I'll be here, Ramsey, when you come back. I'll eat dried grass in order to break the shackles of the tyrant.'"

For an hour and a half the student body sat intently listening to the timely message of the newspaperman, who has lived for so many years in Europe, mingling with the peoples of many nations, and learning to love them. Then for another half hour they plied him with questions which showed much thought on the part of the students in line with international affairs.

At the outset of his speech, Mr. Ramsey urged an "intelligent approach to the news as found in dispatches emanating from Europe. You will see reference in the publications that news coming from Europe is censored at its source." He then recalled to his listeners' memory the news accounts emanating from Germany a few weeks ago to the effect that 38 British vessels had been sunk at one time. "You will also recall that some time later word came from Great Britain that 32 of the same vessels had reached port safely."

In regard to the subjugated nations, the audience was informed that the people of Norway, Holland and Czechoslovakia are fully in sympathy with Great Britain and the democracies. "While Hitler has conquered the land, he has not conquered the spirits of the people of those lands." Some time was then given to methods by which people of the conquered territories get information out to representatives of the British to aid them. In regard to news from abroad, the speaker suggested that the reader discount it 50 per cent. "And when it comes to news from Germany discount it 70 per cent; from Mussolini's hometown, 80 per cent; and when it comes to news from Russia—well, simply forget it."

Another side-glance into Poland, through the message of Mr. Ramsey was gained by the young audience, when the speaker told of the anguished cry he heard as he was being passed by officials into Poland just after that country was occupied by the Communists. "I heard someone cry out over and over again, 'Thirty years it has taken for me to appreciate what America means.' And then I found the man who had cried. He was being searched by the officials, with not a hem of his under-clothing being missed; and later American money was taken from padding on the shoulder of his coat. Later, outside, I joined him. He told me he was born in Poland, and came to the United States of America as a poor immigrant boy. In 28 years he was able to retire. He withdrew his money and went back to his native land. There he purchased a home for his aging parents, and with his brothers organized a milling business. In a short time the business was on a nation-wide scale. In the Communist invasion all they had was destroyed in less than 10 minutes. There he was broken-hearted. And he swore that he would come back to the United States, and start 'from scratch.' And he told me what he would do should he ever hear anyone belittle the United States which meant so much to him and others like him."

"It is unfortunate that many living here longer than that don't yet appreciate what this land means to them, with its great freedom."

Mr. Ramsey informed that no foreigners are permitted to enter Poland, especially newspapermen. "Hitler is doing such a 'good job' there he doesn't want the people of the world to see the fine results. If Hitler keeps on there won't be a 'Pole' left, not even a telegraph pole." The manner in which people of the subjected countries are forced to slave for the Germans with no hope of compensation was given consideration; and among the horrible events to which Mr. Ramsey was an eye-witness, was that of a low-flying plane in one town, where the Nazi flyer waved, then returned over the house-tops four or five times, waving to the crowd which gathered. "And if a Nazi salutes or hails you, you are to speak in return, but you are not to speak until you are spoken to. On the fifth trip there came the rat-a-tat of the machine gun as the people were mowed down. They couldn't find shelter quickly enough."

The numerous groups of secret police within Germany were mentioned. "Von Ribbentrop has his secret police; Hess has his; Goering has his. They trust each other implicitly. Hess' secret police spy on those of Von Ribbentrop, and Hitler's spy on all of them." The speaker then told of the torture of an aged Jew as his wife looked on, after the two were dragged from their beds by Nazi storm-troopers. Ramsey, who arrived at the time the two were dragged from the house, told of the clothing being stripped from the man, the troopers then cutting his flesh in countless places with their swords, sufficiently to bring the blood. With more severe punishment later, he died within a few hours. "Don't tell me that a man who encourages such brutality is fit to govern this world," he added.

Reminding that after the difficulties are over, Mussolini should have no trouble earning a decent living as a comedian. Mr. Ramsey then told of how on June 10th last he stood by in Rome as Italian soldiers listened to Mussolini, then cried as in one voice as they hailed him. "And if it had been a few months later that that gathering had occurred I could imagine I heard the same soldiers exclaim: 'Hail Caesar. We who are about to surrender salute you.' Don't let anybody tell you the Italian people cannot fight. They can, but I knew that night that the Italian people would not fight. They ask, 'Why should we fight for a man we detest?' The fact that they have not been fighting as they are capable of fighting, is no surprise to me." He then followed by telling of the whispered remarks of two Italian friends, right in the city of Rome as they walked toward his quarters after Mussolini's speech that night: "D..... fool!" and "Revolution."

In regard to the German army the speaker added: "Whoever heard of an army going to war on ration cards?" Hitler's entry into Italy was considered and the reasons given, among them being "to prevent the people of Northern Italy from starting a revolution; and to save the face of Benito Mussolini, if it is worth saving." He then stated, "The Italian people, I know, do not like the rule of the Nazis." Heart-splitting scenes in central Europe when bodies of thousands of starved people were buried in trenches after the Communist invasion, were told of, the bodies then being covered with quick-lime. "I have seen planes fly so low over mobs of refugees on the French roads that the mob rushed back and forth to avoid the machine-gun fire. I saw three babies born in ditches, with no medical attention available."

One prediction made by the speaker was that the sands of Africa will be the burial ground of Fascist Italy.

That this war has not yet really started was another statement made by the newspaperman. "You will not be able to picture in your wildest imagination what is yet to come when the weather opens. For Hitler realizes that if he is to dominate England, England must be destroyed in this year, 1941." The manner in which Hitler's troops have been spread out on at least three fronts came in for consideration, his main strength thus being somewhat weakened, was gone over, the speaker making the prediction the war may not be over in 1942, '43, '44, '45, and possibly not in 1946. "And when it is over you can not escape its repercussions, right here in America. Young people, you better get busy. Recognize your responsibility as American citizens, and save Democracy. We must not neglect our own job at home. The greatest contribution we can make here to world stability is to put our own house in order. While in France I actually wept. But I didn't weep for fallen France. I wept to think of what could happen in our own U. S. A. Let us not sleep too long."

Two good mixers are better than one

THERE you sit, watching the long road ahead as it dips and rises.

Under your feet there's a quiet whispering, to let you know that all eight able Buick cylinders are happily on the job.

You're giving not a single thought to what's happening under that long bonnet nosing out in front, but here's what's going on:

Instead of the single, compromise-size carburetor you find on most cars, this Buick FIREBALL eight with Compound Carburetion* has two good mixers on the job.

A single one of them—the front one—keeps you rolling smoothly, easily, quietly, on the very minimum rationing of gasoline.

But the other carburetor is alert and ready for any sudden need. Just tramp down on that accelerator pedal—it goes into instant action, giving you more fuel and more power for any emergency purpose!

It's almost like having two engines—one to handle normal requirements thriftily, another to team up with the first for extra oomph and wallop when you want it.

That kind of teamwork pays.

And owners by the thousand will tell you it's more economical too—as much as 10% to 15% more economical.

If you haven't experienced what it feels like to have that under the bonnet of your automobile, better go have that Buick demonstration now.

*Standard on all Buick SUPER, CENTURY, ROADMASTER and LIMITED models, available at slight extra cost on all Buick SPECIAL models.

The Great Game of Politics

the unemployed upon which, in the past eight years, the demands for relief funds have been based. Up to Wednesday it seemed impossible to get Mr. Roosevelt to take this strike situation seriously. He has been cold to every suggestion looking to a solution. Neither the Knudsen notion of legislation providing for a "cooling-off period" of forty days nor the Patterson proposal to create a War Labor Board along the lines so successfully laid down by President Wilson in 1918-1919 seems to appeal to him.

THE day after his press-conference dismissal of the whole business as really unimportant he had a one-hour conference on the subject with Mr. Knudsen, followed by a two-hour conference with Mr. Philip Murray, the CIO chief. While these conferences were proceeding two more strikes on army housing projects were called at Odenton and Edgewater, in Maryland. Soon or late the President will have to act in this matter or accept responsibility for the inevitable consequences, which are: First, increased and dangerous delay in production; second, greatly increased costs. It is easy to understand that he does not want to act and that he will not act unless prodded by an aroused public opinion. It is easy to understand why he continues to insist that these strikes on defense work, which actually are strikes against the Government, are not worth talking or writing about.

BECAUSE the strikes and the strikers have been directly encouraged by the White House. The sort of thing about which the War Department worries today is the direct result of the President's own attitude—and that of his wife. Considering the encouragement given them by the White House, it is difficult to blame the professional labor leaders for going after what they can get, crisis or no crisis. It was the President who, in launching the defense effort, asserted that the emergency called for no modification or relaxation of the restrictive labor laws which so clearly impede the speed of the program. It was Mr. Roosevelt who, rejecting the advice of experienced men, refused to form his defense organization along the tested lines of the last war, and, instead, set up first a commission with no head and then with two heads—one of whom is a paid professional labor leader who is on the OPM frankly to represent the interest which pays him. It was the President who picked Mr. Winant for Ambassador to England because he was favored by labor interests here and acceptable to labor interests there.

IT is the President who, despite the $1-a-year industrialists drafted into the defense organization, has, by "balancing" them everywhere with the labor leaders, justified the comment of his own journalistic reflectors that this is really a labor government. And, finally, it was Mrs. Roosevelt who rushed over to a Brooklyn meeting of strikers, commended the strikers, approved of strikes and disparaged employers generally. Reflection upon these things, all of which are beyond dispute, makes these strikes seem natural and inevitable.

THE President has ample power to prevent any stiff-necked employer with a defense contract from taking advantage of organized labor. He also has ample power to prevent the labor leaders from taking advantage of employers with defense contracts. There has been no authentic case of the first, but he unquestionably has encouraged the second. As a result, there is a strong undercover movement among them to utilize the crisis to move toward their goal of industrial socialization—a movement which has the sympathetic support of Left Wing New Deal sides close to him personally. Thus the strange situation exists of a President calling upon businessmen for aid in an emergency and insisting upon speed while at the same time he encourages the strikes which make speed impossible. He is not doing this for any sinister purpose. It is merely typical of the man—typical of his unwillingness to put aside the prejudice he urges others to forget; of his inability to think clearly and act practically.

SHOPPING TIPS FOR BUDGETEERS

Travel the city over and you will find no more sincere values than can be had at one of the most friendly shops in the central shopping district.

Men like their suits to come from a house of reliability. Just now Snellenburg's (always noted for clothes men like) are having a most inclusive showing of their "Brinkley Yearcraft" suits, offering the famous "Chapelton" tweeds, shetlands, chevots, gabardines and coverts, as well as a wide choice of excellent hard-wearing worsteds, gathered from American mills with famous names. These splendid suits are a better buy than ever, and great emphasis has been put on both comfort and style. Excellent tailoring. Incredible, but $25. (3rd fl.)

If you're playing hard at bridge this year or just needing the convenience of an all-purpose card table of sturdy build, be sure to look at a "Samson". Snellenburg's Card Table Department on the 4th floor has a grand variety of card tables. You should see the flowered tilt-top "Samsons" that can be used for fire screens or placed against the wall. Only $2.98. Other "Samson" numbers are worth while. One regular is heavily braced and has ashtrays at the corners. Priced at $2.98. A lighter weight table is but $1.98. Good buys!

The wrong shoes may affect a child's foot and even its happiness for the rest of its life. The "Edwards" shoes in Snellenburg's 1st fl. Boys' Shoe Dept. are especially designed to preserve the natural foot at its best. Compare the "Edwards" last with most other shoes for growing feet, and believe! This same last is preserved up into size 6. The "Edwards" shoes have an elasticity not always present in men's shoes, and necessary for young arches. Sizes 13 to 3, $4.50; 3½ to 6, $5.50. Arched, $6 and $7. See and appreciate!

Girls 7 to 14 are definitely interested in bright cotton frocks at this time of the year. The Girls' Shop of Snellenburg's (2nd fl.) has a garden of such frocks at the amazingly low price of $2. Most of the materials are sturdy, though some are sheers. Stunning are models with cross-wise stripes. Be sure to see the little model with a 24 gore skirt and the grownup collar! There are darling jumpers, and no mother or child will successfully resist the jolly "flower girl" prints. Only $2, remember!

Something new — to me at least — klippeder sturgeon for Lenten menus! Those who know say it's luscious. A half pound can costs 60c. I have heard that fresh sturgeon has sold for as much as $1.35 a pound! It is a white fish, solidly packed. Use as appetizer, snack, creamed on toast, sauted, etc. A can should serve three people. Snellenburg's first floor Food Department is now offering this delicacy at this reasonable price. Other Lenten foods are there in variety. Snoop about while you're there.

Now, cheery shopping for your money's worth—and more! I don't care how much you spread my column gossip—I wish you would! "F. C."

Parking for less in the center of the city in what is called "the finest garage in the world!" This new garage is right at Snellenburg's new back door in covered Clover St. between 11th and 12th Sts. Present a Snellenburg parking slip and receive the special rates of 2 hrs. or less for 25c, 3 hrs., 30c; 4 hrs., 35c. More floor Food Department is now offering this delicacy at this reasonable price. Other Lenten foods are there in variety. Snoop about while you're there.

ROHM & HAAS FIVE WINS FIRST GAME, PLAY-OFF SERIES

Last-Ditch Rally by Manhattan Team Fails of Its Purpose

FINAL SCORE IS 51 TO 44

Huge Crowd Witnesses Blistering Attack in the Last Session

Despite a last-ditch rally by the Manhattan Soap team, the Rohm and Haas five won the first game of a three-game series to determine the championship of the Bristol Basketball League. The game was played before the largest crowd of the season last night on the Italian Mutual Aid floor and the final tabulations were: Rohm and Haas, 51; Manhattan, 44.

At least three times, the soap-makers had staged spurts which threatened the lead of the chemical workers, a lead which they held from the beginning of the game. But on these occasions, the attempts were always thwarted by either Joe Roe or Johnny Cole.

The soapmen started a blistering attack in the last session and had sliced a 12-point Rohm and Haas lead down to three points. Here Nick Hufnagel and Joe Gallagher had produced plenty of punch and it seemed as if the Rohm and Haas team were going to be left by the wayside.

But Manhattan had forgot the money-player of the league, Joe Roe. Roe had a chance for a set shot and arched a high one which cut the net cleanly for a two-pointer. The cheering had hardly stopped when Roe cut underneath the basket to again rack up a two-pointer and to make victory certain, Manager Johnny Cole added a long shot and the soap-workers had the pep knocked from them.

But teams were inclined to get rough during the course of the tilt but the two officials, "Henny" Morgan and "Mike" Derrick, did not let anything escape their eyes and the usual tugging, holding, nipping, and pushing sort of did down after the first period was over. Ralph Cahill, high-scoring ace of the Rohm and Haas team, left the game via the personal foul route in the third period and both Johnny Cole and Joe Snyder had a trio of fouls marked against them.

Manager Johnny Cole and Joe Roe did the bulk of the work which paved the way for the Rohm and Haas triumph. Cole had six field goals and a foul. Five of Cole's double-deckers were really long shots which dropped through the hoop without touching the rim. Cole had, in basketball terms, an "on" night and took advantage of it by attempting shots from beyond and near the center mark of the court. It was these long throws that upset the Manhattan team whenever a spurt was getting under way. Roe's goals six field and five goals, were well executed shots but the last three were the ones which took the heart out of the soapmen.

Gallagher, Zeffries and Kelly were outstanding for the losers. The latter did not do much scoring but it was three passes of his in the final quarter that set the spark for a Manhattan rally. Gallagher and Zeffries were high scorers. Joe Snyder, although he did chalk up nine points, missed many shots that if made would have turned the tide of the tilt.

The Maple Beach team started with an early lead and kept it throughout. After battling closely in the first five minutes, the score being 4-4, VanZant started a rally and at the close of the first ten minutes the score was 19-7. The Manhattaners, with Gallagher and Zeffries accounted for a pair of twin-pointers each, curtailed this to 27-21 at half-time.

After the ten-minute rest period, the boys of Johnny Cole went to town again and the third period found them in front, 37-27.

PROFY TEAM LOSES TO HOOPERS; SCORE, 52-45

It wasn't Johnny Slaven's fault that the Profy team was beaten by the Hoopers last night in the preliminary game played on the Mutual Aid court. Slaven was brilliant but the Radiomen were beaten by the Morrisville outfit, 52-45.

The game was more closely played than the score indicates. Until the last few minutes of the tilt only two or three points separated the club. All this despite the fact that the Profymen had a miserable first half and missed many shots.

MORRISVILLE FACES RIDLEY TOWNSHIP IN P. I. A. A. COURT FRAY

Lower Bucks Kingpins Meet Tough Foe in Tourney Contest

MUST HALT MR. MOORE

Ridley Township Ace Was Third Best in Suburban Scoring

By Jack Gill

The oft-repeated cry in and around Morrisville during these late midnight hours that precede the Bulldogs' biggest tussle of the year against Ridley Township High School is "No more for Mr. Moore."

For tonight in the spacious Villanova College Field House the Lower Bucks Conference champions face their first foe in the statewide P. I. A. A. scholastic basketball tournament. If history still repeats the game may not only be the first, but also the last. Local court ensembles have fared rather poorly once they have gotten outside of their own backyard.

And George Moore is the man of the hour. The Ridley Township scoring ace tallied 122 points this season for Coach Seltzer's cause and fans see little reason for him to lay down on the job this evening. He closely followed Reynolds, of West Chester, and Menna, of Downingtown, in the suburban loop.

In warming up for the test against Morrisville Moore pocketed 24 markers against Swarthmore. By virtue of its 43 to 25 victory over the Garnet the Ridley Township aggregation won Group Four honors.

Morrisville is primed for its highest objective of the campaign. Its scoring star, Vince Da Bronze, who led the local league with a meagre 25 point total, has a task to accomplish in outmaneuvering Moore. Davey Seltzer, a slick playmaker for the Blue and Gold cause, Joe Bresley, Bob Purcell and Whipper Wallace are expected to start along with Da Bronze for the local kingpins.

Wallace hit a season's high against Bensalem last week and veteran John Hoffman is keeping his fingers crossed and hoping for an encore. This is the fifth time since Hoffman took over coaching duties at Morrisville in 1933 that he has won district-court laurels. The Dogs will employ either a zone or an all over the floor man-for-man defense.

In addition to the Morrisville-Ridley Township tussle at Villanova this evening, Coatesville tangles with Lansdale, the Bux-Mont champs who

Interest Increases In "Bundles for Britain"

These included three cartons of used clothing, one of new clothing, and one carton of shoes.

A field kit of surgical instruments donated by Dr. H. Doyle Webb of Bristol, was on display at the headquarters in the Wright Building at the time of the meeting Tuesday. Announcement was also made of the gift of 1,000 quinine tablets just received from Asa Fabian druggist of Bristol.

From Reginald Webb of Langhorne the group received a large donation of new clothing consisting of 14 pairs of boys' wool shorts, six pairs of knickerbockers, four sweaters, six girls' dresses, six pairs of children's bloomers and a great many pairs of stockings, hosiery and wool.

The sixth grade of the Newtown Schools, Miss Mildred Perrison, teacher, had a "Bundles for Britain Day" Friday, February 21st. Each child brought a "bundle" of used clothing and shoes for the air raid victims of Great Britain. Both boys and girls of this grade are knitting squares for a copper chest now being made and to be given for this purpose.

An arts and crafts show is planned for the near future with some of the articles on sale. Silver teas, garden parties and card parties are to be arranged. The giving of a benefit play, movies and lectures was considered. A white elephant sale around spring housecleaning time, a dog roast and child's party were all discussed. Also a historical pilgrimage of Bucks county was anticipated.

A new special fund created by the National Headquarters of "Bundles for Britain" was described by the secretary, Mrs. Percy W. J. Cannon, who read a letter announcing the "adoption" of 19 damaged London hospitals which are not subsidized by the government and need funds badly.

No date was set for the next meeting which will be called by the executive committee when the need arises.

Ideas for fund raising constituted the main business of the meeting Tuesday. The date for a ball was set for May 24th. Chances will be sold on
